Introduction:

MIDIRS Midwifery Digest is published quarterly in March, June, August and September.

MIDIRS welcomes contributions that will advance knowledge and/or encourage debate about midwifery and childbirth, thereby contributing to the improvement of maternity care. All material submitted for publication must be submitted exclusively to MIDIRS Midwifery Digest.

General considerations for your article

- keep in mind MIDIRS strong commitment to respecting women as equal partners and individuals with diverse needs
- avoid jargon and use friendly, accessible language where possible
- please make explicit any potential conflict of interest which might have influenced your work. This could be financial, personal, political or academic. If you are unclear whether this might be the case, please email the Digest Editorial Office or phone 0117 9077589 to discuss it further.

Length

The maximum length of your article should be 3000-3500 words, although we also welcome pieces shorter than this. If it is longer, please contact the Digest Editorial Office to discuss it before submission.

All material accepted for publication may be edited, but any suggested edits or amendments will be discussed and agreed with authors before final submission and page proofs of work will be sent to the author to check for errors prior to publication. We have a strong commitment to this, however, if we are unable to contact the author before publication it may not always be possible.

Illustrations and photographs

Tables and illustrations should be submitted separately from the text of the paper, together with the legend or caption. Tables should be simple and clear. MIDIRS is always keen to receive any of your own photographs to illustrate your article, although we can’t guarantee that they will be published if they are not clear enough. Photographs should be in colour, and emailed to us in high resolution jpg format. Where photos have been obtained in the clinical setting, or by the author, written consent of the subject(s) must be provided prior to publication. A letter from the subject(s) giving consent is sufficient. MIDIRS reserves the right to choose a photograph or other graphic device to accompany an article without the agreement of the author.

References

The accuracy of the references is the responsibility of the author. Full and accurate information MUST be given for ALL sources mentioned in the text.

Please use the Harvard style and cite references in alphabetical order at the end of your article. If you would like a copy of the MIDIRS referencing guidelines, please contact the Digest Editorial Office.

Format

Please submit your article as a word processing document using 1.5 line spacing in Arial font size 12. Authors should provide a title page including the title of the article, their name, full contact details and details of their title.role/appointment.
Copyright

MIDIRS holds copyright of all original articles published in the MIDIRS Midwifery Digest. Material published in the Digest may occasionally appear on our website at www.midirs.org. MIDIRS is quite open to authors republishing their own work elsewhere, but if you wish to do this you must contact us by email or on 0117 9077589 to obtain permission to do so.

Previous or planned published work on a similar topic

If you have written papers, or are planning to write papers for other journals that are similar to the article you are submitting to the Digest, please make reference to these and identify how this one is different from the others.

Commissioned articles

Very occasionally we will approach an author and ask them to write on a particular subject perceived to be of interest in a specific edition of the Digest. On agreeing to write an article, you will be given a deadline for submission, and a space in the Digest will be reserved for your contribution.

In all cases if an unforeseen circumstance means that you are unable to meet a previously agreed deadline please let us know as soon as possible. It’s our job to accommodate unforeseen changes and we are happy to do so but it is easier if we have as much notice as possible.

Occasionally an article is held over to the next edition because of space restrictions, but you will be informed prior to publication.

Submission

Submit your article via our online submission facility.

Uncommissioned articles

Most of the articles in MIDIRS Midwifery Digest are sent to us speculatively. All articles are read by an editor or peer reviewer. On submitting an article, you will be informed about whether or not it has been accepted, accepted with amendments, or rejected. If accepted, the article will be copy edited and made ready for the next deadline. You will be sent page proofs to check for errors before publication. If your article is accepted with amendments, you will be given a deadline for these. If accepted, it will be copy edited. You will receive page proofs to check for errors before its publication.

Please contact the Digest Editorial Office via the online contact form or on +44 (0) 117 907 7583 with any queries.

Thank you for considering publication in MIDIRS Midwifery Digest. Happy writing!
